D.6 Prepared Reading Rubric

5 5 10

| Level | Motivation for choice of passage | Choice of passage | Delivery | Audience Awareness |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 7: | The candidate provides a sincere and well-substantiated choice of passage, which is fluently and compellingly delivered. The candidate provides an insightful overview that helps the audience contextualise the passage. The register employed is entirely appropriate and enhances the candidate's motivation. | The choice of passage is excellent and allows the candidate great scope for a memorable delivery. The variety of register, dialogue and style enables the reader to demonstrate his/her range of competence. | The reading is superior and displays flair and individuality. The candidate has used pace, pause and varied intonation to enhance the quality of the reading. | Eye contact is convincingly maintained and the audience are effectively addressed. The candidate's reading is riveting. |
| 6: | The candidate's motivation is engaging and sincere, but it lacks sufficient substance. The overview required more detail for the audience to be able to understand the context fully. The register is appropriate and the candidate uses the chosen register accurately and articulately. | The choice of passage is very pleasing and the candidate can use the techniques of delivery to very good effect. Interesting dialogue allows the candidate to change pace and voice to enhance the quality of the overall reading. | The reading is of a high standard. However, there are some elements relating to pace, pause and intonation that could be improved. | Eye contact is not always sustained. The candidate reads well but the delivery lacks the overall polish of Level 7. |
| 5: | The candidate's motivation is pleasing, but the explanation has errors or else is quite superficial. The overview is competent, but lacks flair and insight. The register is generally appropriate although some lapses may occur. | The choice of passage is good and the candidate has tried to select a passage, which will enable him/her to use the required techniques of delivery in a pleasing manner. | The reading is of a pleasing standard, but the candidate is not able to alter the elements of pace, pause and intonation effectively. | The candidate tries to employ eye contact, but this is quite sporadic. There is too much dependence on the text. This affects the sincerity and conviction of the overall reading. |
| 4: | The candidate does give a motivation, but this is generally personal and does not provide appropriate substantiation to provide his/her views. The overview is adequate, but lacks fluency and polish. The correct register is mostly employed, but there are phrases which are inappropriate or too casual. | The choice of passage could have been better. While the candidate does seem to have given this some thought, the passage does not allow the candidate to clearly display his/her strengths. | The quality of reading is competent. The candidate may be hesitant, or else read too fast. There is not enough attention to pause, pace and intonation. | Eye contact is limited and the candidate has his/her eyes closely focused upon the book. |
| 3: | The motivation is too short and is very superficial. The candidate tends to give a plot summation of the novel rather than an explanation as to why the novel is important to him/her. The use of register is inappropriate and tends to be too casual. | The choice of passage has not been carefully selected. The candidate seems to have chosen the passage quite randomly with little thought as to how the delivery techniques can be put to best use. | The quality of reading is lacklustre. The candidate lacks fluency and there is much stumbling over words. There is little attention to pause, pace and intonation. | Eye contact is minimal and the candidate does not seem to be fully familiar with the nuances of the passage. |
| 2: | The motivation is almost non-existent and is vague and most superficial. The candidate does not seem to have prepared a motivation and the use of register that is employed is inappropriate. | The choice of passage is poor and seems to have been decided upon because of its availability rather than because of its strengths. | The quality of reading is less than adequate. It is difficult to follow the reading because of a halting delivery, which is either too slow or too fast and becomes monotonous. | The candidate does not employ any eye contact and loses the audience. |
| 1: | There is no motivation. The candidate does provide a title and an author but there is nothing else. The use of register is inappropriate. | The choice of passage appears entirely random. The candidate has not given any thought as to how he/she can employ the required techniques. | The reading is very poor. The candidate cannot use techniques of delivery with any success and is often inaudible and inarticulate. The delivery is hesitant and stumbling. | The candidate does not seem to be familiar with the passage and does not lift his/her eyes from the text. |
